

Words written separately and together, Al-Maqtoo3 wa Al-MawSool 5

We continue explaining the words that are written joined or separated in the Glorious Qur'an. It is necessary to learn and apply in recitation the words that are separated in writing and those that are joined in writing when reciting, so that the reader knows how to stop on the separated word in the correct place, and on the joined word in the correct manner. There are two places in the Glorious Qur'an where these two words are written.

There are three places in the Qur'an where these two words are written in some copies of the Qur'an, and in some copies : These two words are written in all other places in the Qur'an. Imam Ibn Al-Jazaree said: There is one place in the Holy Qur'an where these two words are written, and they are written throughout the rest of the Qur'an. Sheikh Al-Jazaree said:

These two words are written by agreement in two places in the Qur'an, and they are written by agreement in all other places. The closest command is that of " or join, so we know that Imam Al-Jazaree is referring to joining these two words. Imam Ibn Al-Jazaree said: The copies of the Qur'an are in agreement that these two words are written in four different places in the Qur'an, and written in all other places. Again, the closest command form of a verb is "" so we are still on the subject of joining in the Jazariyyah.

Imam Ibn Al-Jazaree said the following about these two words in his poem on tajweed known as, :
